Name _____ Date _____ Period_____

Uncovering History's Mysteries

Focus: How do historians uncover the mysteries of history?

Scenario: You are writing a "how-to" book, How to Uncover the Past. Your book will provide future historians (archeologists, scientists, geologists…) with advice and tips on how to successfully understand the past. However, to make your advice credible, you must provide specific examples from past historians' experiences.

Task: The following three sections are your "pre-planning" notes that you will submit to a publisher to try and get your book published. Complete the three sections below from your background knowledge and notes.

(This is your final product…you are not actually writing a book!)

How do historians uncover the mysteries of history?	Example to support your claim
How do historians uncover the mysteries of history?	Example to support your claim
How do historians uncover the mysteries of history?	Example to support your claim
How do historians uncover the mysteries of history?	Example to support your claim
How do historians uncover the mysteries of history?	Example to support your claim
How do historians uncover the mysteries of history?	Example to support your claim
How do historians uncover the mysteries of history?	Example to support your claim

The “Do’s and Don’ts” of Successfully Uncovering the Past
DO	DON’T

Final words of advice for a future historian:

_____

_____

_____

_____